The Bay & Collective

The Bay Collective Big Band is a raucous six-piece band, hailing from sunny Byron Bay and featuring some of the region's most prominent vocalists and multi-instrumental talents. Led by Hayley Grace, the band embody the spirit of 60s and 70s funk and their live shows are loud, fun, cheeky and overflowing with energy. You feel this band when they walk on stage.

Featuring a full horn section atop an epic rhythm section and with six lead vocalists among their ranks, The Collective are full power. Their genuinely original sound draws influence from the likes of Stevie Wonder, James Brown and Sisters of Soul, and they have more than enough talent to back it up.

The Bay & Collective

Hayley created The Bay Collective in 2017 during an epic jam session on the back deck of her property overlooking the farmlands behind Byron Bay, but its roots run much deeper than this. Hayley has an incredibly diverse range of global experience under her belt, touring extensively through Sri Lanka and India, playing gigs in the Himalayas with a sound system carried on the back of a donkey. She has gone on to grace the stage of Splendour in the Grass and tour with icons like UB40, Phil Emmanuel and Darren Middleton (Powderfinger).

The Bay Collective made their festival debut at the 29th Annual Byron Bay Bluesfest, and have clocked up an impressive run of gigs up and down the east coast of Australia in their first year. They have just completed recording their debut four-track EP, High Vibes, for release in June 2019 and with an East Coast tour planned to celebrate it.

This dynamic band has a huge selection of original music and is available for gigs and festivals throughout Australia, Asia Pacific and beyond.
